DAILY MARKET LETTER.

Wall Street, New York, April 4—After the sharp advance and the strong closing of the market yesterday stocks opened irregular and lower this morning, but up until the time the bank statement was posted they held up fairly well. The statement was worse than anyone expected, and consequently the market broke badly. The current news so far is rather adverse to any improvement in the market and local sentiment seems generally in favor of taking the selling side for speculation. Money rates continue stiff and the movement of currency is still coming out of the banks into the coffers of the sub-treasury. There have also been rumors that Morgan has been selling the market quietly during the past few days and many traders believe that Mr. Morgan intends to repudiate his statements as published in the Times, but as yet has not done so. A most singular factor was characterized from the fact that during the heavy selling that came ostensibly from some inside interests, if not Morgan, there was no sign of absorption, which generally appears at the low level on similar occasions. Call money continues firm.

SELLING ON SUNDAY

Judge Sanders Rendered an Important Opinion Today.

No More "Tight Sabbaths"—Cigars and Other Things May Be Sold.

LARGE CROWD ON HAND

What May Be Sold

Drugs, bread, cakes, and other products of a bakery; meat, milk, candies, fruits, newspapers, soda water, mineral water, ice cream, cigars.

Avocations that may be followed: Running boats, trains, or street car, hacks, transfer wagons, newspapers, livery stables, hotels, restaurants.

Merchants handling perishable goods, or goods liable to early decay, may sell them on Sunday.

Judge Sanders, in the police court, this morning rendered his opinion in the Sabbath violation cases, and there was quite a crowd on hand to hear him, among the spectators being Mayor Yelzer and a number of city officials.

As a result of the decision, there will be more activity manifested down town tomorrow. Judge Sanders said before reading the opinion, which unfortunately is so long that it was impossible to print it in full, that he had decided these cases times after time, and would decide the questions of law involved this time once for all. He declared that if any one was not satisfied and wanted to prosecute such cases in the future they would have to do it in some other court. He said he hoped that the cases would be taken to the court of last resort, and get an expression from them, but that strange to say it seemed that the courts of no two states rendered opinions exactly alike.

The cases before him were tried two weeks ago, in which Robert Wilson, Nick Smith, W. H. McPherson and others were charged with violating the Sabbath by selling groceries and cigars on Sunday.

All pleaded guilty as to fact except E. Farley & Son.

The court in his opinion goes back to Biblical times and traces the origin of the Sabbath from its beginning to the present day. He quotes from one of the celebrated characters of the Bible, who said as ears of corn were plucked in the field, "The Sabbath is made for Man, not man for the Sabbath."

A number of cases in point from Indiana, Texas and other states are cited and extracts from higher court decisions given ancient various questions involved. One thing deduced is that most all the courts in all states refuse to consider American Sabbath legislation in any other than a secular sense, most of the courts distinctly declaring that to give a religious import to the law against Sabbath breaking in this country would be to do violence to the genius and spirit of free institutions. In the language of the supreme court of California, "When, therefore, a citizen is sought to be compelled by the legislature to do any affirmative religious act, or to refrain from doing anything, because simply it involves a religious principle or observance, the act is unconstitutional."

From the 24th American Encyclopedia, page 541, is quoted: "It is impossible to lay down any general rule as to work of charity or necessity. It might be said in general that supplying the ordinary demands of our physical nature and relieving from the situations of peril and exposures, are necessary acts which incur no blame, still the exigencies of human life which demand works of charity and necessity are so numerous and so diversified by attending circumstances as to defy classification and forbid the Counter business with the banks the past week was again heavy. Money is in good demand, but there is no stringency, as exists in the East. Business with the wholesalers has been very good this week, all lines reporting the same. Manufacturing plants are all busy, with good bookings for future. The congestion on the railroads still exists, but is being cleared up slowly but surely.

WEEK'S NEWS IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Real estate business is good and gets better as the season advances.

The Sutherland Medicine Co. reports an increase of 53 1-3 per cent over March last year in the sales of its products, Pine-Tar-Honey, Walker's Tonic and Eagle Eye Salve.

The tobacco inspector, Mr. Ed Miller, reports as follows:

AN INJUNCTION ASKED AGAINST CHICKENS

Attorneys Bagby and Martin this morning filed a very peculiar suit in county court. It is to restrain a man from letting his chickens run at large over another's property.

The suit was brought for Mr. Sanders A. Fowler against R. E. Torian of the West End, and was brought by the plaintiff, who wishes to raise vegetables and other garden plants, but claims he is prevented by the defendant's chickens, which come in and scratch up everything. An injunction was asked for and granted and the case will come up for trial next week some time, probably Monday morning.

This is the first suit of this kind ever filed in this court, it is said, and the result will be watched with interest by many who are troubled by such invasions of the feathered tribe.

attempt to prescribe a general rule. Said Judge Sanders: "The best I can do is to follow in the footsteps of the higher courts in recent decisions, and make only a partial classification, and to judge of cases before me as they arise, and to treat them as within the exceptions of the statute or within its prohibition, according to the particular feature which each presents."

He gave as those avocations exempt from the Sunday law the following: Druggists, bakers, vendors of fresh meats, milk dealers, confectioners, hotel keepers, restaurants, transfer companies, hackmen, liverymen, newsboys and newspapers, dealers in soda water, ice cream, mineral waters, cigars, and merchants engaged in selling perishable goods, or goods liable to early decay.

The warrants before the court for Sabbath violation were then dismissed against Mr. L. A. Lagomarsino, for keeping his saloon open on the Sabbath, that there was no evidence to sustain the charge, and he dismissed the warrant. Mr. Lagomarsino admitted that liquor contained in the bill of fare was furnished from his sideboard to guests, and was not taken from his saloon. As to the question of whether or not a hotel keeper can do this the court was not ready to pass, as there are some decisions he is awaiting. He said, however, that his present opinion is that it is not lawful for a hotel keeper so to do in every case, as it would only be "beating the devil around the stump."

The court in closing said that times have changed very rapidly and the Sabbath that our forefathers observed was very different from ours, as witness those times when less than 100 years ago supposed witches were burned and even persons charged only with working on the Sabbath were tortured at the stake by people who claimed to be civilized. Times have undergone a wonderful change since then, and there is even a great difference in the Sabbath observed in various parts of our country, and between the rural Sabbath and that of the big cities, where everything is almost as open and bustling as on week days. He said that he remembered when he was a boy and lived up in Smithland, there was a certain fellow to whose house he always made it convenient to go every Saturday. The reason was that his folks always cooked everything good imaginable on Saturday in preparing for Sunday. Their religion prevented them from cooking a thing on the Sabbath, but it did not prohibit their eating it on Sunday, provided it had been cooked on Saturday. So they always laid in Sunday's stock on Saturday.

The point was that if anyone in Paducah finds himself handicapped by the today's decision, he should do like that old Quaker family at Smithland—simply lay in a supply Saturday. There is no law against enjoying it Sunday.

RENEW THE FIGHT

A Rehearing of the Democratic Primary Question Asked.

Petition Comes Up April 12—Harry Tandy Has Another Deal On.

MANY DIVERSIONS CONDEMNED

THE PRIMARY CASE.

Frankfort, April 4—John Ray, of the counsel for Charles Meacham and Colonel Hendrick filed today in the office of the clerk of court of appeals a petition for a rehearing of the Meacham primary case. The petition will be filed in open court April 12, when the new term begins and will probably be quickly disposed of.

In the petition Ray reiterates that Meacham is responsible for a portion of the liability incurred by the committee in paying the expenses of a primary. He says the court, after deciding it had no jurisdiction as to the party's authority to call a primary, went out of its way to decide that the primary was legally called. That while the court conceded it could not decide who was the governing authority of a party, no issue was presented as to that.

CHANGED CHURCHES.

Versailles, Ky., April 4—Rev. Joseph Cleveland, a Methodist evangelist, after concluding a sermon in the Christian church at Millville, this county, publicly renounced the Methodist faith and asked to be received into the Christian church.

AN UNUSUAL MISHAP

The Tug Echo Runs Wild in Mid Stream Here.

Collided with the Ferry Boat and a Coal Dock at the Wharf.

NO ONE WAS ABOARD

The little steam tugboat "Echo," of the Leyhe fleet, broke loose from the steamer Bald Eagle this morning about 7 o'clock and ran straight into the ferryboat Bettie Owen, then veering off slid along the guards of the ferry and ran into the St. Bernard coal docks where Ed Freels, the watchman, jumped aboard and shut off the steam, just in time to prevent her running down a shantyboat.

The Bald Eagle had just left her winter harbor here on her way to St. Louis and the "Echo" was lashed to her side. The tug had on a full head of steam and was assisting the larger boat in leaving the harbor. When the boats had come opposite Court street the tug suddenly broke loose and made straight for the ferryboat which was moored at her landing at the foot of Court street. Engineer Joe Flasch and George Strader, a deckhand of the Bettie Owen, were standing on the outerguard and saw the tug making for them. Engineer Flasch remarked that it was singular that the pilot did not turn aside or the engineer slow down a bit, as the tug was coming pretty fast and would be hard to turn aside. As the Echo approached nearer it was seen that no one was aboard and great excitement prevailed.

She struck the ferryboat full in the side and knocked a great hole in the guard but fortunately striking her hull with little force. Strader jumped aboard, but did not understand the machinery and could not shut off the steam. Ed Freels, the watchman on the docks, realizing the danger, jumped aboard and after experimenting with the different valves, found the throttle and shut off the steam. A line was thrown out to the docks and the tug made fast to await the claim of the officers who arrived soon after and took charge.

The engineer of the tug stated that he was at breakfast and had left the boat securely fastened, he thought. The pilot was also aboard the Bald Eagle and thought the boat in charge of the engineer. It is supposed that the swift current and the sea-sawing of the boats wore the lines in two, and let the tug run "wild." The Echo's stem is badly dented but the damage is comparatively little. The damage on the ferryboat is thought to be slight although a thorough examination has not been made. Only a few saw the accident and it was one of the rarest on record.

WORK PUSHED.

CALDWELL STREET BRIDGE SOON TO BE COMPLETED.

The work on the Caldwell street bridge is getting along nicely. Half the piling has been set and the other half will probably be finished by Monday night. The timbers will be set when the piling is all in and the bridge will be ready for use by next Saturday, at the furthest. The water is slowly receding in the hollows surrounding the depot, and by Monday will have all run out. If the bridge is not completed by this time the hacks will come through the hollow and the I. O. dummy trains will be discontinued.

The Week In Society.

HER LENTEN SACRIFICE.

Devoutly now she turns her soulful gaze
From worldly things; she ceases for a while
To dabble at the play; a pious smile
Around her rosy mouth demurely plays;
She turns from cards and dances and arrays
Her graceful figure in a modest style;
No gems the whiteness of her neck dole,
No jewels on her slender fingers blaze.
Ah, let the sweet Recording Angel write
A fair account of this fair one below,
Who having for a space withdrawn from sight,
Sits not impatient with a mask of woe;
By day she reads love stories, and at night
She talks them over with her latest beau.
—S. E. Kiser in Saturday Evening Post.

APROPOS OF SOCIETY.

This week has been but a reflection of the others, with little to disturb its quiet. Society is still suffering from inertia, a more prolonged attack than is usually the case even at Lenten-time, which every year is being more generally observed season, perhaps.
Society is not idle, though, and the complete rest, which is very welcome to many, is being utilized in various ways. The Padonah matron is domestic and looks well to the ways of her household, even if she is a club woman, so there are various things to arrange in order for the springtime, and the summer fitting. The young society girl is busy sewing these weeks, it would surprise you to know the amount of work she really accomplishes when you think she is playing, and the pretty things she evolves. She is a wonder to the older generation, with the ease, rapidity and daring of her work. They meet together every few days, a little coterie of them, and ply their needles with great skill and effect—while they talk. Many of the striking costumes you will see this spring and credit to some modiste, were made by the wearer during these Lenten days of quiet. Of course, you may not see them in their glory on Easter day, for that is a custom being relegated more and more to the past. It is said to be an unwritten law now that no truly smart woman will christen her bonnet or gown on Easter Sunday.

TO MARRY APRIL 8.

The marriage of Miss Edith Myrtle Ellithorpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ellithorpe to Mr. Edward Roland Buchanan of the Padonah Iron Furnace company, will be solemnized on Wednesday evening, April 8, at

He has made many friends during his residence here.

PERFECT ASSIMILATION

Some people eat heartily, even ravenously, yet nothing seems to "stick to their ribs". Others don't eat much, but assimilate all nutriment in the food and get fat. We have letters from people who say that makes them fat. It doesn't. It simply gets their digestive organs in shape to take the nutriment out of the foods which they eat. It also acts as a gentle laxative and tonic. Please try it.

A. C. Jones, of Hortonville, Ind., writes: "I owe to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that I am one of the best of men. I have taken it for six days after I began to take your medicine. I had gained 30 pounds in weight, felt like a cow man and I can highly recommend it to any one who is troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia."

PEPSIN SYRUP CO., Monticello, Ill.

A number of out-of-town guests were here this week for the Friedman-Levy wedding on Tuesday, among whom were: Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Levy, Mrs. Henry M. Levy, Mr. Sidney Levy and Mr. Ben Roanbaum of Louisville; Mrs. Jacob Hecht of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Weil and Mr. Sam Simon of Evansville.

Mrs. Will Higgins, who has been in Asheville, N. C. for her health, is now quite restored, her host of friends here will learn with pleasure, and will soon return home. She will visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dixon Watts, in New York City before returning, and will be accompanied home by Miss Ethel Merrey, who has been spending the winter there.

Announcement cards have been received here by friends of the marriage of Mr. Frank Short, of this city, to Miss Lucy Boeke of Seymour, Ind., at that place on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Short are now here and are at the residence of Captain and Mrs. Thon as they are in Washington street. Mr. Short has lived here for several years and is very popular.

Mrs. Victor Voris, who has been for several weeks at Martinsville and Indianapolis, Ind., returned home on Friday of this week, and is much benefited by her stay at Martinsville, her host of friends will learn with pleasure. She had a round of social pleasure in Indianapolis, where she was the guest of honor at several functions and added greatly to the charm of the occasions by her own brilliancy.

Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, the popular pastor of the First Christian church here, will sail from New York City the 20th for an extended European trip that will embrace the countries of France, Switzerland, Italy and England. He will sail for home from London, and will be gone until about September 1. The trip is a gift to Mr. Pinkerton from some of his people here and is a most delightful proof of their love and appreciation. Mr. Pinkerton leaves here about the 11th and after accompanying Mrs. Pinkerton and daughter, Gertrude to upper Kentucky, will join his party in New York. The church has granted Mr. Pinkerton a several months' leave of absence and the rest will greatly benefit his health which has been severely taxed by his untiring labors.

Captivating Styles in Easter Millinery

Our Millinery opening the past week was an event of unparalleled importance to women who wish to see and know the newest and most beautiful styles created for the Spring and Summer of 1903.

The coming week's exhibits will further convince the public of the unsurpassed excellence of the taste, skill and character of Mrs. Harbours' spring millinery display, a display that is not equaled in Padonah.

We want to impress upon those who perhaps have not yet tested the capabilities of this big and progressive department the importance of an early call if they really appreciate charm and elegance in millinery that is inimitable and that costs a big money saving when the actual quality and character of the materials are properly understood. We use only first class materials and many hats that we offer could not be duplicated in any home in the city for less than two-thirds the price we ask. We ask our many friends and patrons who want Easter hats to come at once to avoid the usual rush Saturday preceding Easter. Everybody is cordially invited to freely inspect our offerings and to get in close touch with the newness of our styles and the actual money saving prices we are capable of making.

DRESS GOODS, WAISTINGS, TRIMMINGS AND M'CALLS' PATTERNS TO SHOW HOW TO MAKE UP THE GOODS.

Our big dress goods sales comes from the fact that our dress goods values are immense compared with the high prices usually asked by other dealers. We invite you here to look. You'll find a great assortment around the 49c price the 75c and the $1 mark. A GREAT ASSORTMENT OF WHITE MERCERIZED WAISTINGS.

The season's newest best and most wanted kinds at 25c, 35c, 50c and 50c with 50c waisting on the way to us.

The wearing time for these suits runs from now until June and from September all fall. The skirts are wearable all summer and the jackets of cool evening. Every ready for street wear and the skirts alone in most of the suits are worth our this week's prices.

NEW HOUSE WRAPPERS.
A big assortment just received. We had expected them sooner but we are glad to get them now, in view of the fact that this particular manufacturer has heretofore given us better fitting wrappers than we could find anywhere else. The goods alone are worth the prices we put upon these ready-to-wear wrappers. Here's the way the prices run: 70c, $4c, 85c, 97c, $1 and $1.25 in light dark and medium grounds sizes 32 to 42.

DAILY THOUGHT.

"To look fearlessly upon life; to accept the laws of nature, not with meek resignation, but as her sons, who dare to search and question; to have peace and confidence within our souls—these are the things that make for happiness."

THE WEATHER.

Fair and warmer tonight and Sunday.

PROTECTING THE NEWSPAPER.

The Virginia general assembly has passed a bill of great importance to the newspapers of that state. It is to protect newspapers, which unwittingly and inadvertently often run the risk of incurring damage suits in their efforts to give the public facts while they are new. The Virginia law requires all persons, before instituting civil or criminal action against a newspaper or other publication, to at least five days beforehand serve notice on the defendant or defendants, specifying the article or articles objected to, and the statements therein alleged to be false. This affords an opportunity for correction or amicable settlement. The law specifies:

"If it shall appear upon the trial that said article was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to an honest mistake of the fact and that there were reasonable grounds for believing that the statements in said article were true, and that within ten days after the service of said notice a full and fair correction, apology and retraction was published in the same edition of corresponding issues of the newspapers or periodical in which said article appeared and in as conspicuous place and type as was said original article, then the plaintiff in such case, if a civil action, shall recover only actual damages, and if in a criminal proceeding a verdict of 'guilty' shall be rendered on such a state of facts the defendant or defendants shall be fined a penny and costs and no more, providing this act shall not apply to existing suits."

In addition it makes it a misdemeanor for any person to communicate intentionally or maliciously false statements to a newspaper or any of its editors or reporters, thus securing the publication of such false statements.

Newspapers are often blamed for "telling lies." Even the most conscientious people makes mistakes in their efforts to relate events as they occurred, but a newspaper always "tells a lie." It never makes a mistake! Newspapers probably handle more facts, or alleged facts, than anything else on earth. Every day column after column of what has been brought or sent, accepted and published as facts appear in each issue of every newspaper. The opportunity for error is probably not so great in any other business or profession extant. We believe that considering everything newspapers handle the truth so far as human beings are able to get it in this uncertain world, about as creditably as it can be handled. They make mistakes and misstatements but they do not do it intentionally. They do not wilfully, at least most of them do not, pervert the truth. Judges and lawyers and others who frequent court rooms are perhaps more aware than any other class of men of the difficulty in getting the truth when witnesses, legally and morally bound to tell the truth, tell their stories, no two tell it alike. There is always a shade of difference for all people see things

To most of these cases no one would dare say those who under oath have sworn to contrary statements, have told a lie. They call it "a mistake." But if a newspaper is misinformed while gathering information from all kinds and classes of people on whose mendacity there is no restraint, which it is liable to do very often inasmuch as the straight of a thing often cannot be reached ever when eyewitnesses are put under oath, it is charged with "telling a lie."

The newspapers of Kentucky need a more liberal and just libel law. There can be found no unfair law anywhere than the libel law of Kentucky. Our legislature should follow in the footsteps of Virginia.

Mayor Yeiser may think that the question of his eligibility is settled, but there are a great many others who do not. He also said a mayor would not have to be elected this year, and he could hold on for the full four years, but he has since learned differently, notwithstanding the various "opinions" he carried around with him in his pocket.

General Miles, after several months of severe desuetude, is having another eruption, this time over "unbanned beef." If the general doesn't watch out, he will "beef" once too often some of these days.

Several days of spring weather in Kentucky have been followed by a frost, but May 9 there will be a far worse "frost" in Kentucky—for a few Democrats.

It costs $1 to expectorate on the sidewalks in Washington, D. C. At that rate the city ought to realize a vast revenue, if there are as many expectorators there as here.

The president seems to be enjoying his trip very much, despite the Democratic press. He receives an ovation everywhere he goes.

DAMAGE FROM WIND

Boats Forced to Tie up Last Night.

A Number of the Barges and Shanty-boats Snuk By the Gale.

NO LIVES REPORTED LOST

The wind all yesterday afternoon and a part of last night blew a gale, and according to reports did great damage in this section. Nearly all the boats in the harbor had to tie up on account of the barriance, and a number of barges of ties are reported lost.

The telegraph and telephone companies had serious trouble with their wires, and the Postal for over an hour did not have a single wire, all going down at once. The Western Union did not suffer so much.

At Brookport, according to reports, six or seven barges of ties sank or blew away, but there will be little damage, as most of the ties will be saved.

Two barges of ties, belonging to the steamer Teh Broeck tow, were sunk near the E. E. Bell spoke factory just at dark last night to the winds, but fortunately no ties were lost.

The two barges sunk carried about 15,000 or more ties, and one was raised this morning with little damage while the other was towed down although partly under water. The ties remained in the barges and were all saved. The Teh Broeck has gone to Joppa with one barge and will return today after the one raised this morning.

A number of shantyboats are reported lost and sunk and much property of this sort suffered greatly in the winds, but there are no lives reported lost.

The boats of Frank France and Oscar Garrison, which were moored just above the Livingston Point on the Ohio side, were torn loose from their fastenings and sank. The occupants escaped before the boats capsize. The boat of Jim Cowan, moored near the Bell spoke factory, was also sunk but is being pumped out today. Two boats lost above the Livingston point were also snuk but the names of the owners could not be learned.

Six barges of ties at Brookport were snuk and it is said that many ties were lost. The barges belonged to the Gray Tie company and the Ayer & Lord company, four to the former and two to the latter. Two of the snoken craft will be difficult to raise. Laborers were put to work this morning pumping out the barges and will get them up again as soon as possible.

THREE ARE HURT

Two Painfully Injured at the Shops.

Mr. Frank Bodde One of the Victims—None Serious.

Mr. Frank Bodde, foreman of one of the car repairing gangs in the local I. O. shops, was badly injured this morning while at work on a car.

He was stooping over to inspect work on a car when a laborer accidentally struck him in the head with a heavy sledge hammer. Mr. Bodde was knocked to the floor and remained in an unconscious condition for some little time. He was taken to the hospital, where the injury was dressed. His many friends will regret to learn of the accident and wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Kelley, a car repairer at the Illinois Central shops, was painfully hurt this morning by a piece of timber falling on his head. Three stitches were required to close the wound. He lives at 1118 Madison street.

L. B. Pryor, colored, was working on a raft this morning when an axe in the hands of a companion accidentally struck him on the left hand and cut the member badly. Dr. J. T. Trontman dressed the injury.

THE BOILER LET GO

Explosion Near Birmingham, Marshall County.

Several Injured, One Doubtless Fatally So in Explosion.

THE BOILER WAS "DRY"

The boiler at Jale Dono's saw mill, near Birmingham, Marshall county, a few miles from Benton, exploded yesterday with terrific force, destroying the mill, and badly injuring several men.

It is understood that the water had run low and when an effort was made to inject more water into the boiler the explosion took place.

Harrison News was probably the worst injured of all. He was standing near the engine when the explosion took place and was scalded from head to foot, in addition to being badly bruised and cut. He will die.

Will McAttee had charge of the engine, and while he was blown some distance, he escaped with light scalds and bruises.

Warren Watkiss, a 15 year old boy, was struck in the forehead by a flying brick and rendered unconscious, but it is thought will recover.

Claude Heath was apparently dead when found, having been struck in the head and shoulders by a piece of the boiler. He afterwards recovered, however and it is believed will recover.

The escape of the men who were at the mill at the time is almost a miracle. The mill was valued at several thousand dollars and is a complete wreck.

TATER DAY

BENTON TO ENJOY ITS ANNUAL HOLIDAY.

Monday is "tater day" in Benton, Marshall county, the greatest anniversary in the history of the place. It is called "tater day" because on that date all the farmers take their sweet potatoes to Benton to sell them for bedding purposes. It is in addition county court day and usually hundreds of farmers are in town. Many people in Paducah never fail to go out to Benton on "tater day," and a number are expected to go out Monday.

MAKING AN ATHLETE.

PROPER FOOD THE MOST IMPORTANT REQUISITE.

Most health or ill health comes from the stomach, depending upon how it is fed. The athlete is very dependent upon the proper food. An athlete of Muncie, Ind., writes: "From a frail, sickly college student of scarcely six score pounds the pure food Grape-Nuts has brought me, through persistent, conscientious use, to a vigorous young athlete tipping the beam at 152 pounds. For two years the food has been to my stomach what pure air is to the lungs—a source of vigor, health and vitality."

"Having always been a great reader, I frequently while at school missed my meals that I might devote the time to a favorite book, or else I hurried through the meal. This irregularity, omission and hurrying, together with the close application to study finally told on my health until I was forced to leave school. I must have been in a truly pitiable condition when what my friends have since told me, although at the time I am sure I did not half realize the seriousness of my case. My parents decided to send me on a trip to Southern California.

"On the train I made the acquaintance of a Mr. Weissenger, a wholesale grocer of Chicago, who was interested in my case. He heard my story and advised me to try Grape-Nuts, a food greatly relished by his own family. From what he told me of the food I longed to try it, but I did not expect to find it beyond the Rocky Mountains. To my surprise on arriving at Los Angeles I noticed a box of Grape-Nuts on my aunt's sideboard. That marked the beginning of my health and comfort. Since then I have come to look upon the food Grape-Nuts as a synonym for good health and happiness." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Good clothes Make you Feel Comfortable

Is it a comfortable thing to know your clothes are all right? To know they hang right, are cut right, made right and of the latest style? We sneer when a man says, "The clothes make the man." May be they don't, but it gives him an air of prosperity to be well dressed. Let me make your clothes and you will always be well dressed—and prosperous. If you will call I will convince you that I can save you money on your clothes—one of the by paths to prosperity. Good clothes are the cheapest, always.

BE A BOOSTER FOR THE PADUCAH CARNIVAL.

The coming free carnival at Paducah May 11-16 will boom business and advertise everybody. It chases dull times away, makes the people feel better by reason of affording them enjoyment, gives the little folks the treat of their lives, shows the old folks the way of innocent amusement, brings great crowds from afar, enables you to meet your friends and relatives from other cities, makes the city the center of attraction for thousands of excursionists, enlivens the sluggish, makes the older ones feel young again, makes the weak strong and the wretched happy.

It also makes everyone feel good and puts into circulation many a dollar which otherwise would have been hoarded away in an old teapot or in the foot of an old sock. As a business producer, general enlivener of everything and a boomer of towns in general there is nothing like the great carnival, and all over the country where it has visited the masses say so and are booking it to come back again.

Be a booster and help the merchants in their efforts to make this carnival a big success.

Theatrical Notes.

Coming attractions at The Kentucky:

Monday night the Pernehl-Beldent Co. company will open for a week's engagement and the repertoire for the week follows:

Monday night—"Land of the Sky."

Tuesday night—"The Judge."

Wednesday matinee—"Broken Links."

Wednesday night—"The New World."

Thursday night—"Dangers of New York."

Friday night—"Midnight Marriage."

Saturday matinee—"Fool of the School."

Saturday night—"Slaves of Russia."

Last night "A Ruined Life" was presented by a fair company to a small audience. The play is not exceptionally strong but the company was not bad. In the third act the heroine, who is pursued by enemies who desire her arrest for alleged murder, makes her escape on a flying machine. The machine is perfect and has an electrical apparatus that sets the propelling wheel in motion and makes the scene a realistic one. The company left last night at 1:20 for the east and The Kentucky will be dark until Monday when a repertoire company will begin a two week's engagement.

The Pensacola News says: "Land of the Sky," an interesting comedy-drama, was produced by the Pernehl-Beldent company at the opera house last night to a large audience. The presentation was first class in every detail. In this the Pernehl-Beldent company is setting the pace for repertoire companies that has been seen here in a long time. The costumes of Miss Beldent are especially beautiful and compare with anything in that line that has been seen on the local stage. The company is a well selected one and each member thereof seems to be specially moulded for the part cast for them. The play went through with the smoothness of clockwork and the players read their lines in a manner that showed training and study. Between acts specialties were given, which were exceptionally good and included turns by Chelso Perochi, Frank Fahy, the Carleton Sisters and Lattimore and Leigh, all of whom are clever people." The above company will be at The Kentucky all next week. Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. One lady will be admitted free Monday night if accompanied by escort with paid ticket purchased before 5 p. m.

Theater patrons of this city will have a dramatic treat Friday, April 17, when Miss Henrietta Crossman comes to The Kentucky in "The Sword of the King." Miss Crossman has to her credit a record of unprecedented success in this comedy. In New York, in a long run at Wallack's theater, she secured the hit of the season; in Philadelphia she played to the biggest audiences and receipts in the history of dramatic entertainments in this country; in Boston the Tremont house was so crowded that the orchestra was put under the stage, and more recently, in Chicago, Miss Crossman aroused a degree of enthusiasm seldom witnessed in that city. It is universally admitted that in "The Sword of the King" Miss Crossman has excelled all former achievements. No such praise has ever been bestowed on any actress as has been given to Miss Crossman in this comedy. It is conceded that as Philippa Drayton Miss Crossman does the best work of her stage career. She reveals in comedy and furthermore displays her versatility in strong emotional portrayals. Miss Crossman is supported by one of the best companies that ever surrounded a star, while the play is mounted in the highest degree of excellence known to the stage. The entire production is new and costly, having been especially made for the recent engagement at the Grand opera house, Chicago.

In the collection of tricks with which Herrmann, who comes to The Kentucky shortly, entertains his audience is one in which he borrows several watches from people in the audience, apparently places them in a funnel-shaped revolver, shoots them at a man's head, and they appear hanging to the seat of the chair in which the assistant sits. In order to make the trick especially interesting the magician induces some young man from the audience to come on the stage and take part. If a good-natured fellow offers his services considerable fun frequently results, especially when the magician, preparing to shoot the watches at him, says in a broken English: "Oh, you have no protection. I see. I give you a revolver, too." Then he hands the frightened assistant a toy pistol about three inches in length. In Arizona last season Herrmann proceeded with the trick and induced a healthy looking cowboy to come on the stage. All went well until he offered the small pistol, when someone called from the audience: "Use your own gun, Jim. The Frenchman may mean business." Jim took the advice and produced a six-shooter that took all the humor out of the situation, at least for the magician, who suddenly decided that he would work with his own assistant, and escorted the cowboy carefully back to his seat.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

IS QUITE ILL

Miss Flora May Clark Has Smallpox Here.

Was Attacked in West Virginia and Started for Home.

Miss Flora May Clark, whose stage name is Lillian Lancaster, is ill from smallpox at her home at Ninth and Clay streets. She arrived Thursday from Grafton, West Va., where she became too ill to work, and feinted during the third act of the play, "Man to Man."

She has been indisposed for some little time, and before she left Grafton was quite ill, and broke out. A doctor who attended her, according to the young lady, told her that she had chickenpox, and should start at once for home or some doctors might call it smallpox and order her to the pest house some where.

Miss Clark at once started for Paducah, and wore a heavy veil. When she arrived here her malady was at once pronounced smallpox. She was not to close her season for six weeks yet, and her understudy is now taking her part. It is possible that the young lady will remain at home during the remainder of the season.

HOSPITAL BOND ORDINANCE THREATENED BY SCHOOL BOARD.

The doctors are feeling discouraged again in their efforts to secure a charity hospital bond issue election and think that they will not be able to secure the election before next November, when the matter can be placed before the people at a regular election.

"The school board has come in and asked for a bond issue," one doctor remarked, "and we stand little chance of getting our bond issue, as this was the way it was killed before. The street matter was what interfered last time and now that we get things going our way in steps something else and wants a bond issue."

The matter of ordering the election will be taken up nevertheless and the doctors hope to win out despite all the drawbacks and discouragements with which they have met.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills

When the Best Physicians and All Else Fail.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humors remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take the Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete treatment, costing but one dollar, affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humors of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

THREE PER CENT RAISE

COUNTY JUDGE LIGHTFOOT RECEIVES OFFICIAL INFORMATION.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot this morning received a letter from M. J. Meagher, chairman of the state board of equalization, announcing that the board had carefully examined the recapitulation of McCracken county tax assessment and had not raised the assessment value of land and personal property subject to equalization, but had raised the assessment value of town lots 3 per cent.

April 16 is the day set for the hearing of McCracken county committee-men who will probably be sent from here to contest the raise. Judge Lightfoot stated this morning that he would think the matter over and would not be able to tell exactly what he would do about the matter in a few days. He stated that he may not send a committee at all. The committee is limited to five and the assessor must be one.

Irregularities

CHICAGO, ILL., 5902 Indiana Avenue, Sept. 25, 1902.

Wine of Cardui is superior to anything I have ever tried for irregularities. Three years ago I noticed that I became irregular but I paid little attention to it. Gradually the trouble became serious and affected my general health. The flow became scanty and very painful and I sought the doctor's aid. I soon found, however, that his prescriptions did not have the desired effect and when a friend recommended Wine of Cardui I decided to try it and procured a bottle. It helped me at once and I felt greatly encouraged when I noticed the change for the better. At my next menstrual period the pain was less and the flow better and within four months I was perfectly well, regular and without pain.

This is over a year ago and I have not suffered any pains or trouble since. Accept my sincere thanks for your efficient remedy.

Because Wine of Cardui cures women so simply, so quickly and so effectively it is the favorite medicine of women today. This medicine brings women health and freedom from sickness by the most simple process—Nature's own way.

While physicians examine and operate, Wine of Cardui works a cure without the humiliating publicity of an operation or the danger of the use of a knife.

Wine of Cardui strikes at the root of female trouble. It regulates the menstrual flow, making the function regular and healthy, an aid to health instead of a menace. A profuse flow weakens the blood and suppresses poisons. Wine of Cardui, by regulating the flow, gives life and strength to all the generative organs. Bearing down pains disappear and ovarian pains and weakness give way to health.

If you are suffering from female weakness you should look after your case at once. All the organs are in sympathy and you cannot tell what a simple case of irregularity will run into if you let it alone. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Take it in your home, in private, and you will thank Miss Adams for her advice.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

Or, The Love Story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, the King's Sister, and Happening In the Reign of His August Majesty King Henry the Eighth

Re-written and Rendered into Modern English from Sir Edwin Caskoden's Memoir

By EDWIN CASKODEN [CHARLES MAJOR]

Copyright, 1906 and 1907, by the Doubleday-Merrill Company

CHAPTER III. THE PRINCESS MARY.

NOW, at that time, Mary, the king's sister, was just ripening into her greatest womanly perfection. Her skin was like velvet, a rich, clear, rosy snow, with the hot young blood glowing through it like the faint red tinge we sometimes see on the inner side of a white rose leaf. Her hair was a very light brown, almost golden, and fluffy, soft and fine as a skein of Arna silk. She was of medium height, with a figure that Venus might have envied. Her feet and hands were small and apparently made for the sole purpose of driving mankind distracted. In fact, that seemed to be the paramount object in her creation, for she had the world of men at her feet. Her greatest beauty was her glowing dark brown eyes, which shone with an ever changing luster from beneath the shade of the longest, blackest upcurving lashes ever seen.

Her voice was soft and full and, except when angry, which, alas, was not infrequent, had a low and coaxing little note that made it irresistible. She was a most adroit coxer and knew her power full well, although she did not always plead, having the Tudor temper and preferring to command—when she could. As before hinted, she had coaxed her royal brother out of several proposed marriages for her which would have been greatly to his advantage, and if you had only known Henry Tudor, with his vain, boisterous, stubborn violence, you could form some idea of Mary's powers by that achievement alone.

Such was the royal maid to whose tender mercies, I now tell you frankly, my friend Brandon was soon to be turned over. He, however, was a blade of very different temper from any she had known, and when I first saw signs of a growing intimacy between them I felt, from what little I had seen of Brandon, that the tables were very likely to be turned upon her ladyship. Then thought I, "God help her," for in a nature like hers, charged with latent force, strong and hot and fiery as the sun's stored rays, it needed but a flash to make it patent when damage was sure to follow for somebody—probably Brandon.

Mary did not come home with us from Westminster the morning after the joustings, as we had expected, but followed some four or five days later, and Brandon had fairly settled himself at court before her arrival. As neither his duties nor mine were onerous, we had a great deal of time on our hands, which we employed walking and riding or sitting in our common room reading and talking. Of course, as with most young men, that very attractive branch of natural history, woman, was a favorite topic, and we accordingly discussed it a great deal—that is, to tell the exact truth, I did. Although Brandon had seen many an adventure during his life on the continent which would not do to write down here, he was as little of a boaster as any man I ever met, and, while I am in the truth telling business, I was as great a braggart of my inches as ever drew the longbow—in that line, I mean. Gods, I flush up hot even now when I think of it! So I talked a great deal and found myself infinitely pleased with Brandon's conversational powers, which were rare, being no less than the capacity for saying nothing and listening politely to an infinite deal of the same thing, in another form, from me.

I remember that I told him I had known the Princess Mary from a time when she was twelve years old, and how I had made a fool of myself about her. I fear I tried to convey the impression that it was her exalted rank only which made her look unfavorably upon my passion and suppressed the fact that she had laughed at me good humoredly and put me off as she would have thrust a poodle from her lap. The truth is she had always been kind and courteous to me and had admitted me to a degree of intimacy much greater than I deserved. This, partly at least, grew out of the fact that I helped her along the thorny path to knowledge, a road she traveled at an eager gallop, for she dearly loved to learn—from curiosity perhaps.

I am sure she held me in her light, gentle heart as a dear friend; but, while her heart was filled with this mild warmth for me, mine began to burn with the flame that discolors everything, and I saw her friendliness in a very distorting light. She was much kinder to me than to most men, but I did not see that it was by reason of my absolute harmlessness, and, I suppose, because I was a vain fool I gradually began to gather hope—which goes with every vain man's love—and, what is more, actually climbed to the very apex of folly and declared myself. I well knew the infinite distance between us; but, like every other man who came within the circle of this charming loadstone, I lost my head and, in short, made a greater fool of myself than I naturally was, which is saying a good deal for that time in my life, God knows!

I knew vaguely, but did not fairly realize, how utterly beyond my reach in every way she was until I opened the floodgates of my passion, as I thought it, and saw her smile and try to check the coming laugh. Then came a look of offended dignity, followed by a quick, softening glance.

"Leave me one friend, I pray you, Edwin. I value you too highly to lose, and esteem you too much to torment. Do not make of yourself one of those fools who feel, or pretend to feel, I care not which, such preference for me. You cannot know in what contempt a woman holds a man who follows her though she despises him. No man can beg a woman's love; he must command it. Do not join their ranks, but let us be good friends. I will tell you the plain truth. It would be no different were we both of the same degree. Even then I could not feel toward you as you think you wish, but I can be your friend and will promise to be that always if you will promise never again to speak of this to me."

I promised solemnly and have always kept my word, as this true, gracious woman, so full of faults and beauties, virtues and failings, has ever since that day and moment kept hers. It seemed that my love, or what I supposed was love, left my heart at once, frozen in the cold glint of her eyes as she smiled upon my first avowal, somewhat as a disease may leave the sickened body upon a great shock. And in its place came the restful flame of a friend's love, which so softly warms without burning. But the burning! There is nothing in life worth having compared with it for all its pains and agonies. Is there?

"Now, if you must love somebody," continued the princess, "there is Lady Jane Boleynbrooke, who is beautiful and good and adires you and, I think, could learn to— But here the lady in question ran out from behind the draperies, where, I believe, she had been listening to it all, and put her hand over her mistress' mouth to silence her.

"Don't believe one word she says, Sir Edwin," cried Lady Jane. "If you do, I never will like you." The emphasis on the "will" held out such involuntary promise in case I did not believe the princess that I at once protested total want of faith in a single syllable she had said about her and vowed that I knew it could not be true; that I dared not hope for such happiness.

You see, I had begun to make love to Jane almost before I was off my knees to Mary, and therefore I had not been much hurt in Mary's case. I had suffered merely a touch of the general epidemic, not the lingering, chronic disease that kills.

Then I knew that the best cure for the sting which lies in a luckless love is to love elsewhere, and Jane, as she stood there, so petite, so blushing and so fair, struck me as quite the most pleasing antidote I could possibly find, so I began at once to administer to myself the delightful counter irritant. It was a happy thought for me, one of those which come to a man now and then and for which he thanks his wits in every hour of his after life.

But the winning of Jane was not so easy a matter as my vanity had prompted me to think. I started with a handicap, since Jane had heard my declaration to Mary, and I had to undo all that before I could do anything else. Try the same thing yourself with a spirited girl, naturally laughter loving and coy, if you think it a simple, easy undertaking. I began to fear I should need another antidote long before I heard her sweet soul-satisfying "yes." I do not believe, however, I could have found in the whole world an antidote to my love for Jane.

In the course of my talk with Brandon I had, as I have said, told him the story of Mary, with some slight variations and coloring, or, rather, discoloring, to make it appear a little less to my discredit than the barefaced truth would have been. I told him also about Jane, and, I grieve and blush to say, expressed a confidence in that direction I little felt.

It had been perhaps a year since my adventure with Mary, and I had taken all that time trying to convince Jane that I did not mean a word I had said to her mistress and that I was very earnest in everything I said to her. But Jane's ears would have heard just as much had they been the pair of beautiful little shells they so much resembled. This troubled me a great deal, and the best I could hope was that she held me on probation.
